The University of Cyprus cordially invites you to an open discussion with H.E. the British High Commissioner in Cyprus, Matthew Kidd.

Απολείπειν-Farewell to diplomacy.
After nearly forty years as a diplomat, more of them spent in Cyprus than anywhere else, some parting reflections on diplomacy and on Cyprus.

Welcome Speech:

Professor Constantinos Christofides, Rector of the University of Cyprus

Remarks will be followed by a short questions and answers session in Greek language.

Matthew Kidd, British High Commissioner

Matthew Kidd began his career in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office in 1978 and took up his first posting to Cyprus in 1980. He was later posted to UK diplomatic missions in New York, Paris, Ethiopia, Germany and NATO before returning to Cyprus as British High Commissioner from May 2010 to August 2014 and again from June 2016.
