

Short CV

Artemios Demetriou MD, MSc

Dr Demetriou graduated with Honours from the American Academy of Nicosia, Cyprus and he then went onto Medical School in Semmelweis University of Budapest, Hungary. He completed his Medical Degree with Honours and then worked as a Pre-registration House Officer for one year in Nicosia General Hospital. He then moved to Tel Aviv, Israel where he trained in Sheba Medical Centre, as a Pulmonary Medicine Resident doctor for five years. Following this, he moved back to Cyprus where he was appointed the position of Resident doctor in Intensive Care Unit in Nicosia General Hospital (subspecialty in ICU) completed in 2015. Since then, he serves as a consultant Pulmonary Physician in the Pulmonary Department of Nicosia General Hospital with a special interest in Respiratory Infections, Interstitial Lung Disease, Chest imaging and Interventional Pulmonary procedures. Furthermore, he received in 2017 the European Respiratory Society Diploma (after successful Hermes examination) and also completed his Master Degree in Health Care Management, in the Open University of Cyprus.