

Violetta Christophidou Anastasiadou MD, PhD

Violetta Christophidou Anastasiadou MD, PhD is a pediatrician and clinical geneticist. She is the founder of the Clinical Genetics Clinic in Cyprus, based at the Archbishop Makarios III Hospital and the Cyprus Institute of Neurology and Genetics. She is involved in research in the field of rare genetic conditions and has several publications in relevant scientific journals. She has been a faculty member of the European Genetics Foundation and is currently an Assistant Professor at the Cyprus School of Genetic Medicine. She has been active in promoting professional and public awareness in genetics. She has been a member of the first Cyprus National Bioethics Committee. She is the chairperson of the National Committee for Rare Diseases. She represents Cyprus in the Commission Expert Group for Rare Diseases and in the Board of Member States for the European Reference Networks.