During the outgoing phase the researcher will be hosted by the Department of, University of Cyprus, the director of which is Professor.....

The University of Cyprus is the largest public university in Cyprus with more than 6000 students valuing the hosting of international scholars and has in place all the infrastructure necessary to support visiting scholars in arranging their stay. This includes a Human Resource Service that helps visiting scholars deal with issues relating to immigration, taxation and other legal matters and a housing office that offers assistance with households. In addition the University of Cyprus has a Human Resource Strategy for Researcher which include Intellectual Property Strategy as well as a Researcher's Manual. Since 2012, The European Commission approved the University of Cyprus Strategic plan acknowledged the University with the "HR Excellence in Research" logo.

In addition, the University's work and networking activities provide the researcher opportunities to participate in other research activities including courses, seminars, conferences and workshops that will help the researcher to interact and exchange ideas with both regular and visiting faculty and scholars. The University also provides through the Research and International Relations Service, regular information to researchers on research opportunities and funding programmes which help the sustainability of the current research proposal

The text above has been prepared by the officers of the Research and International Relations Service, to be used as a sample. The sample-answer should not be considered as complete but rather as a guide to help you prepare your personal answer. Do not forget that the competition for European grants is very intense and only the best proposals will be successful.
