May 2019

SUMMARY

- In May 2019, economic sentiment in Cyprus deteriorated as the Economic Sentiment Indicator (ESI-CypERC) decreased by 1.3 points compared with April 2019; the decline resulted from a worsening of economic confidence in services, retail trade, industry and among consumers.
- The Services Confidence Indicator declined due to a deterioration in firms' assessments of their recent business situation, and downward revisions in demand expectations.
- The Retail Trade Confidence Indicator decreased marginally as a result of more adverse assessments of recent sales and the volume of stocks.
- The increase in the Construction Confidence Indicator was driven by more favourable assessments of the current level of firms' order books, and more optimistic employment expectations.
- The Industry Confidence Indicator declined as a result of a deterioration in firms' views on the current level of order books and the stocks of finished products.
- The decrease in the Consumer Confidence Indicator was driven by less favourable responses regarding households' financial conditions and consumers' intentions to make major purchases.

Note: The weights used in the calculation of the Economic Sentiment Indicator constructed by the Economics Research Centre (ESI CypERC) reflect the contribution of each sector to the GDP of Cyprus.
